Thirty-Eight Schools Receive Highest Ranking, 94% of Schools Meet or Exceed State Criteria The South Carolina Department of Education (SDE) released school report cards today, providing a rating of Excellent, Good, Average, Below Average, or Unsatisfactory for every school in the state. In Greenville County Schools (GCS), 81 of 86 schools earned ratings of Excellent, Good, or Average, which are defined as meeting or exceeding the criteria to ensure all students meet the Profile of the South Carolina Graduate. Greenville County Schools South Carolina Schools 86 Schools Rated 1,214 Schools Rated 38 Excellent (44%) 250 Excellent (20%) 24 Good (28%) 318 Good (26%) 19 Average (22%) 411 Average (34%) 4 Below Average (5%) 179 Below Average (15%) 1 Unsatisfactory (1%) 56 Unsatisfactory (5%) The report cards rate Academic Achievement, Student Progress, College and Career Readiness, and School Climate. The cards also include English Learners' Progress, Student Safety, and Financial Information. Additionally, High School report cards factor in Graduation Rates. As a district, the 2019 GCS graduation rate improved to 85.1%, a 12.7 percentage point increase since 2012. On this year's report cards, 38 schools in the GCS district scored Excellent, compared to 20 last year. One of the schools rated Excellent, Heritage Elementary, is the only school in the state that improved four rating levels. The number of schools in GCS rated as Good decreased from 25 to 24, while schools rated Average dropped from 30 to 19. Five schools in the district are rated Below Average or Unsatisfactory, compared to 12 a year ago. "We are fully committed to improving the performance of all our schools," said Superintendent W. Burke Royster, "regardless of their rating. Each year our instructional leadership team reviews test results, retention rates, survey data, and other data points to identify schools most in need of additional support. Some schools need extra resources to meet the needs of their communities. With the support of our Board of Trustees, we put those resources where they are most needed." Greenville County Schools saw significant gains in third through eighth grade English/Language Arts and Math scores on statewide standardized testing. High marks for academic achievement and growth are credited for the dramatic increase in schools receiving "Excellent" ratings. Each school received a number grade that determined its rating. The point system does not align with a traditional grading scale (90-100=A, 80-89=B, etc.) and is not consistent between grade levels. Rating Grade Elem. Additionally, all schools in GCS are posting a link to their individual report card on the school's website. Career Centers, Child Development Centers and Washington Center are not rated. It's been several months since school report cards were released showing significant improvement in Greenville County Schools — the district has almost doubled its number of schools rated "excellent." And the Greenville County school district isn't alone. More than one-third of South Carolina schools improved on the 2019 ratings, which were overhauled last year to feature new data such as student growth and safety. The annual report cards, issued by the state Department of Education and released in September, rate schools based on academic performance, graduation rate and student growth, among other factors. There are five ratings used to measure quality: "unsatisfactory," "below average," "average," "good" and "excellent." The full list of ratings can be seen at the bottom of this story. Of the 86 schools eligible for ratings in Greenville County Schools, 38 are rated "excellent," 24 "good" and 19 "average." Four are "below average," and only one is "unsatisfactory." The district had 20 "excellent" schools last year. Heritage Elementary School had the biggest jump in entire state. The ratings show a jump for most schools in the district — 65 improved their scores while seven saw no change and 14 suffered drops. The district's graduation rate for 2019 was about 85% compared to the statewide graduation rate of 81%. Heritage Elementary School in Travelers Rest had the biggest jump in the district, as well as the state, by going up 35 points from "unsatisfactory" last year to "excellent" this year. Ryan Brown, spokesperson for the state Department of Education, said no other school in the state jumped from the lowest rating to the highest. "They worked their tails off for that ranking," said Teri Brinkman, executive director for strategic communication with Greenville County Schools. Heather Hester, principal of Heritage, said the "unsatisfactory" rating came as a shock to the school last year. LIKE WHAT YOU'RE READING? Support stories like this by supporting local journalism. The biggest change in Heritage's rating was its student-growth indicator. Student growth can be a boost to report cards even if the school's academic scores lag because it tracks how far students progressed rather than just overall academic achievement. "I give credit to the teachers and the students — they're the ones that really did whatever it took to say, 'No, this is not our story, and we're going to change the narrative,'" Hester said. All Pickens County schools rate at least 'average' on report cards. Of the 23 schools in the Pickens County school district, nine are rated "excellent," 11 "good" and three "average." The district doesn't have any schools rated "below average" or "unsatisfactory." "These report cards give us very specific feedback about our areas of strength and weakness," Sharon Huff, assistant superintendent of instructional services, said in an emailed statement. "Last year, many of our schools saw the positive results from several years of focus on literacy in early childhood. As a result, our third grade reading scores saw great improvement." The district's graduation rate was 85%. If you're having difficulty seeing the table below, click here. Graduation rates are on the rise in Greenville County Schools, and the district earned overall higher marks on the state's report card for schools, which was released Tuesday.
